My dear General SMITH: —

Today, a note arrived, canceling this appointment, you had so kindly given me, for June 26th. IT did not suggest a future appointment, and seemed so final that I feel most unhappy over it.

May I beg you, for a few moments of your very busy time - in the interest of "JUSTICE", General Smith, - to enable me to discuss the problems, so close to my heart? Allow me to be frank: - a conversation with you, personally, means the future life of two persons, - and I request you, to be generous, and give me the privilege, of a "chance" to talk over with you, important, pertinent facts.

Any hour, convenient to you, on any given day, will be agreeable for me - I can arrange to come to Washington, and am at your disposal.

Be assured of my deep gratitude, for an early appointment.

Most Sincerely yours,

Possibly the latter part of next week?

My dear General Smith: -

Perhaps you will recall, that I wrote you approximately two months ago, advising you, STAT that [redacted] had

"suggested" my contacting you. -

It now develops, that some time, between June 21st and June 26th, I shall probably go to

[redacted] to visit General STA and [redacted], and I would like, so very much, to chat with you, for a few moments, if you will give me the honor and pleasure of greeting you. - If the dates are inconvenient, may I request you to advise me, just when it would be convenient for you to see me; if you will be so gracious, there is something I would like, most urgently, to discuss with you, - if I may, - which I cannot do by letter!

I can always change the date of my visit, at the General's home, - as I would come to Washington, specifically to talk with you, personally. —

With kindest wishes to you, I am,

Most sincerely yours
